DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1 and 3 – 30 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Hochmuth teaches the use of hydrocarbon absorbing trap or element (16) in engine applications, and further incorporating the use of a hydrocarbon sensor (26) downstream of the trap to detect the level of hydrocarbons desorbed from the trap during engine operation (see col. 7, lines 9 – 46; figure 1). Hochmuth does not teach or fairly suggest essentially providing a hydrocarbon absorbing element having an integrated detection means for determining the level of adsorbed hydrocarbons within the element itself during operation.

Regarding claim 1, the cited prior art neither teach or fairly suggest a hydrocarbon sensor further comprising a detecting means for detecting the level of hydrocarbons engaged with the purgeable hydrocarbon collecting element, wherein the detecting means comprises a first portion of wires connected to the element and a second portion of wires connected to the element, such that an electrical connection between the first portion and the second portion is completed by the purgeable hydrocarbon collecting element.

Regarding claim 17, the cited prior art neither teach or fairly suggest a hydrocarbon sensor further comprising a circuit including an electrical connector and purgeable hydrocarbon collecting element, wherein the circuit is configured to detect the level of hydrocarbons engaged with the element.

Regarding claim 24, the cited prior art neither teach or fairly suggest a method further incorporating the steps of operatively connecting the hydrocarbon absorbing element to a detecting means for detecting the level of hydrocarbons in the element; and then detecting the level of hydrocarbons within the element.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
